Nanango-Karinya aged care residence will offer 19 new places: $1.27 million in Fed Gov't funds secured

Nanango-Karinya aged care residence will increase services by 19 new places thanks to $1.27 million secured through the Aged Care Approvals Round , Maranoa MP David Littleproud announced today.

“Nanango-Karyina will use this funding to make sure more of our seniors and their loved ones don't have to go through the anguish of searching far and wide for a place,” Mr Littleproud said.

“I think it's a tragedy is when our seniors are forced to move away from family, friends and community - move away from everything they've ever known - to a larger town or city to receive care as their needs change.

“Funding for this project goes a long way to making sure our seniors feel comfortable - satisfied with the residence and close to their family and friends.

“The alternative, moving seniors into aged care facilities in larger towns and cities where they may not know people is a major upheaval. That also has an impact on family and friends who remain at home.

“The Coalition Federal Government's funding package for aged care residences goes some way to addressing that challenge and creating a chance for seniors to stay, hopefully, much closer to their base of loved ones and family.”

Nanango-Karinya is one of many regional, rural and remote regions across Australia that will benefit, with almost 40% of all new residential aged care places allocated to non-metropolitan areas.

About $5.9 million has been secured by four aged care facilities in the Maranoa electorate through this round of ACAR funding.
